

Philanthropy camp offered for youths

SAN DIEGO — The Jewish Community Foundation will offer one of the first philanthropy camps in the nation this summer — a one-week day camp for high school students from July 30 through Aug. 5. Tikkun Olam Camp will provide students with opportunities to learn about Jewish values related to giving, to participate in site visits to local non-profit organizations and to allocate funds to community programs and organizations.

The camp will encourage students ages 14 through 18 to become philanthropists by empowering them with skills to donate effectively. In the 10 years since the foundation launched the Community Youth Foundation, more than 223 students from various denominations and affiliations in San Diego have gained firsthand experience in community service.
