DEAR FRIENDS,

As the Jewish Community Foundation marks its 36th year, the amount of grants awarded to the community just happened to be almost $36 million. We asked ourselves, “Was this beshert—meant to be?”

In those 36 years, the San Diego Jewish community has experienced tremendous growth and expansion. Working with families and organizations, the Foundation has awarded thousands of grants to fund the growth. We have guided people in leaving legacies for the community. We have worked alongside community organizations and synagogues in building their programs and endowments.

With this progress comes more and more challenge. To keep our community strong and safe, we all need to work together with wisdom, clarity and imagination.

We invite you to review this annual report and ask yourself how you can become engaged in the Foundation’s programs. Whether you enroll your grandchild in the Community Youth Foundation, sign the Book of Life, open a donor advised fund, or find your own unique way to become involved—you can join us with bringing more life to our community.

Finally, we express our gratitude to the donors, volunteers and community organizations that partner with us.

B’Shalom,

Mazzy Kaplan
Executive Director

Andrew Viterbi
President

“A community is too heavy for anyone to carry alone.”

DEUTERONOMY RABBAH 1:10
In 1965, a group of San Diego Jewish leaders gathered at a local restaurant to make a decision that would impact the community in powerful and far-reaching ways. Recognizing the value of building a strong future for Jewish San Diego, these visionaries began exploring the creation of an endowment fund to provide permanent support for vital programs and services. Two years later, the Jewish Community Foundation was established as one of the first Jewish organizations of its kind.

Since then, the Foundation has worked to fulfill the dreams of its founders. Passing on the legacies of those who came before us to help build a brighter future. Ensuring that our children’s children know what it means to be Jewish and take pride in our traditions. Guaranteeing a vibrant and secure Jewish life in San Diego now and in the future.

“We did not find the world desolate when we entered it. And as our parents planted for us, so do we plant for our children.”

“A how wonderful it is that nobody need wait a single moment before starting to improve the world.”

ANNE FRANK
Donor advised funds are individual charitable funds created in your name for the purpose of fulfilling your philanthropic goals. They allow you to make a tax-deductible contribution (minimum to establish: $5,000) when it is most convenient for you and then recommend gifts over time to qualified organizations in both the Jewish and general communities.

Family Foundations are separate, perpetual nonprofit entities that qualify as a public charity because of their affiliation with the Jewish Community Foundation. The foundations are governed by a Board of Directors comprised of donors and community representatives.

Both vehicles give you the opportunity to solidify family philanthropic values and improve the community.

"Funds established in the last year"
Community means sharing resources and building partnerships. The San Diego Jewish community is fortunate to have a wide variety of agencies and synagogues that serve many segments of the community.

While they all have different missions, these organizations share a common desire to build a strong endowment to protect and preserve the high quality of their services. Several general community organizations have also established funds with the Foundation to meet this goal.

I established my Lion of Judah Endowment in honor of my grandmother Anne Ratner’s 90th year of life. Not only does she serve as an example to her family about what giving is, I believe she sets an example for the entire community, both secular and Jewish, as to what philanthropy is. I am inspired by her. I believe she played a significant role in exposing my mother to community giving, and she in turn taught me. It is a priority for me to teach my children that they must give to their communities so that they too can experience the profound satisfaction of Tikkun Olam.”

The Book of Life Statement

The Book of Life is a promise made by one generation to the next that the Jewish community will be here for them, for their children, and for their children's children. By 2004, more than 100 people will have inscribed their names in the Book of Life. In so doing, they express their belief in and commitment to Jewish values and heritage—ensuring that our people will survive and flourish. Donors include a personal message, telling a family story or conveying the experiences that led to the gift.

The Book of Life is proudly displayed at the Jewish Community Foundation. The Book is an ever-growing record of names and legacies—a true portrait of our community.

Betty and Don Byrnes Book of Life Statement

Both of our families brought the concept of tzedakah to our generation, and we have passed it on to our children and grandchildren at a very early age. Not until later did we both realize that tzedakah is a Jewish tradition and responsibility, not just the right thing to do.

The joy of giving to improve the quality of life for those less fortunate lights up our lives. We feel proud and fortunate to be able to leave a legacy to help continue the outstanding work of the San Diego Jewish community.
COMMUNITY YOUTH FOUNDATION

For the past six years, hundreds of young Jews from all Jewish backgrounds, neighborhoods and families have put the principles of tzedakah into action. They visit organizations addressing a variety of needs from feeding the homeless to sending young people to Israel. They discuss and analyze passages of Jewish text. They decide—as a group—how thousands of dollars should be allocated among a variety of good and compelling causes. Their lessons are numerous, yet the most profound are those the youth teach us: lessons of consensus, values, and giving as a natural part of life.

STEERING COMMITTEE

Michael Acheatel | Lena Evans | Tova Katz | Rebecca Littman | Jessica Silverman | Scott Spiegler | Matthew Valji

The 2003 Jewish Funders Network International Conference in San Jose featured a special presentation by Rebecca Littman and Matthew Valji, steering committee members of the Community Youth Foundation. Speaking to a packed room, Rebecca and Matt shared strategies to apply Jewish values to improve the community. One attendee said: “Their comments truly gave us hope and inspiration for the future.” The Community Youth Foundation has served as a model for more than a dozen other communities nationally.
BY THE NUMBERS

2002/2003 was a year of exciting achievements for the Jewish Community Foundation:

Assets reached a new high of more than $150 million.

In our 36th year, the JCF awarded over $35 million in grants to the community, locally, nationally and all over the world, directed to both Jewish and secular causes.

A new interactive web system allows donors to view fund information and perform transactions online 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Documenting their promises of vision, hope and commitment to the next generation, more than 55 individuals inscribed their names in the Book of Life.

The Jewish Women’s Foundation recruited its first 26 founding members and addressed vital issues affecting local Jewish women and girls.

In its sixth year, the Community Youth Foundation engaged more than 30 young people, imbuing them with the skills and resources to become informed philanthropists.

WATCHFUL OVERSIGHT

Auditing the Foundation’s work is critical to its sound operation. The Foundation’s Board of Directors has fiduciary responsibility for the integrity and fairness of financial information and for engaging independent auditors Norton Smith Hermes Diamond.

The Foundation is also committed to maintaining the confidentiality, integrity and security of personal information entrusted to us by our current and prospective donors. We adhere to a strict privacy policy.

The 2003 operating expenses were less than one percent of total assets which is considered low for a community foundation our size. The Foundation’s actual expenses have been under budget every year over the last decade.

Maintaining their belief in the Foundation’s mission, donors contributed more than $50 million in new gifts to donor advised funds, family foundations and endowment funds, more than doubling the prior year’s contributions.

The Foundation introduced a new program offering a selection of Investment Pools. Donors have a choice of Pools based on their charitable objectives.
