

GALINSON TAPPED AS JCF CHAIR

Murray Galinson, San Diego community leader and philanthropist, succeeded Sheila Potiker as Jewish Community Foundation Chair in July. Prior to taking the helm at the JCF, Galinson served as president and chief executive officer of San Diego National Bank from 1985 to 1998, where he continues to serve as board chair. He has also been a professor at California Western School of Law and was Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of California and the District of Minnesota.

Galinson was also recently elected chair of the international Jewish Funders Network and has served on many other Jewish and secular philanthropic boards.